Hi Stu,

I was just down at Marlboro Beach and 6 young men were there drinking and eating and throwing a football around, obviously not maintaining the recommended physical distancing...I realize we have no reported cases of COVID 19 in Hancock County but that will soon change if we as citizens don't take the recommendations seriously. The scene at our beach could easily have been any beach in Florida where our young people just don't care, and yet they all have friends and family who they are potentially hurting.

I realize the Town won't do anything about this now, and I hope we don't reach the point here in Maine where we look, on a smaller but relative scale, like Boston or NY, but if we do it will be partly because we allowed this kind of activity to continue.

Thanks for just taking this information and filing it away...

Concerned,
Carol Mason

Lots of people going to Lamoine beach the last three days. The parking lot is full and there are people parking along the road, people walking their dogs. Perhaps there is not enough social distancing there. Just saying.
